BHOPAL, INDORE, SANCHI & BHIMBETKA

Few places in India bring history to life quite like this remarkable region. The UNESCO sites of Sanchi and Bhimbetka provide students with a rare glimpse into humanity's ancient journey. The Sanchi Stupa, built under Emperor Ashoka's reign, stands as a proud symbol of the Mauryan Empire's spiritual and artistic achievements. In contrast, the Bhimbetka rock shelters whisper stories from the Stone Age, revealing one of the oldest records of human existence. Close by lies Bhopal, the "City of Lakes," whose roots stretch back to around 1000 AD. A city of serene beauty and deep history, Bhopal also represents strength and recovery in the face of tragedy. A short journey away, Indore contributes its own flavor with a lively blend of tradition, trade, and architecture—making this region a rich and engaging classroom for curious minds.
