

Discover GOA

Though Goa is India's smallest state by area, it stands tall in terms of economic performance, with a per capita income that far exceeds the national average. Known around the world for its sun-kissed beaches, Goa's strength lies not only in tourism but also in its status as a leading exporter of iron ore. With the highest forest cover among Indian states, it offers a lush, green landscape that adds to its charm. Once under Portuguese rule, Goa is a melting pot of diverse traditions, colorful festivals, and a rich culinary heritage. For students, Goa presents an exciting opportunity to explore a unique fusion of history, culture, economy, and environment—all in one unforgettable destination.
